FAIR TIME

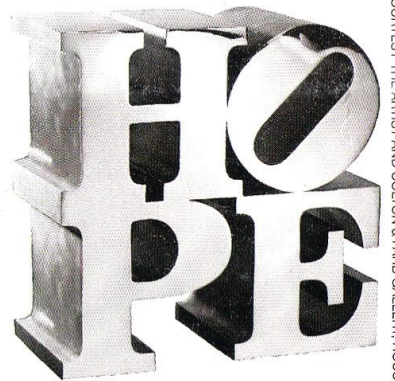

the Dallas Art Fair unfurls in mere days, and this year's roster of national, international and Texas exhibiting gallerists is approaching 75 at press time. That's almost 50 percent more dealers than the 2010 Fair — proving that the art world hungers to exhibit here and connect with Texas collectors. The power gallerists coming to the Dallas Arts District are authentic and exciting, boasting eagle eyes and intriguing stables — CRG, Canada, Zach Feuer, Stuart Shave, Lorcan O'Neill, Thomas Solomon, David Kordansky, Michael Kohn, D'Amelio Terras, Callicoon Fine Arts, just to name a few. They were coaxed here by the vision of Fair co-founders Chris Byrne and John Sughrue, who have nurtured and grown the Dallas Art Fair into a respected and truly important destination.
