DALLAS, TEXAS (Jan. 27, 2026) — Today, the Dallas Art Fair is excited to announce the exhibitors currently committed for its 18th edition of the annual fair, taking place at Fashion Industry Gallery in the Dallas Arts District on Thursday, April 16, through Sunday, April 19. Featuring galleries from more than a dozen countries and with several returning galleries expanding their presence with larger booths for more robust presentations, the 2026 roster underscores the Dallas Art Fair's continued international scope.

As an internationally recognized and highly regarded art fair, the Dallas Art Fair continues its aim to bring together emerging and established contemporary artists with new and seasoned collectors. Now celebrating 18 years, the fair has become an important fixture on the global art calendar each spring, cementing Dallas' reputation as a major destination for contemporary art.

“The Dallas Art Fair has become a vital moment each spring for collectors, artists and institutions to connect and discover what’s next in contemporary art,” says Kelly Cornell, director of the Dallas Art Fair. “What’s particularly exciting this year is how many global galleries are expanding their presence here—recognizing the caliber, curiosity, and commitment of new and established Dallas collectors. This lineup not only showcases the dynamic range of work being produced today, but it also reinforces Dallas’ momentum as a major destination for art, culture, and meaningful collector relationships.”

Highlights for 2026 include:

- The Dallas Art Fair Foundation's Acquisition Fund celebrates its 10th anniversary this year, having raised more than $3 million for local art institutions. Through the foundation's Acquisition Fund, artists represented at the fair are given the platform to be considered for the Dallas Museum of Art's permanent collection, a transformative career opportunity. More than 75 works have been acquired at the fair for the Dallas Museum of Art's permanent collection through the fund.
